

Christina Berlin Pahk

October 28, 1947 - March 28, 2015

Christina Berlin Pahk, 67, of Pinehurst, formerly of New York, N.Y., passed away Saturday, March 28, 2015.

Following a stint at the neighborhood playhouse, Christina pursued a career in journalism and ballet.

There will be no services.

She is survived by her husband, Michael Pahk; brother, Richard Berlin; sisters, Ritchie and Brigid Berlin.

In lieu of flowers, please send donations to: FirstHealth Hospice Foundation, 150 Applecross Road, Pinehurst, NC 28374.

Comments

“ Elaine Mcandrew lit a candle in memory of Christina Berlin Pakh

elaine mcandrew - May 25, 2017 at 04:04 PM

“ Dear Christina....
Sacred Heart and Chapin....Memories from two of our schools....you're younger brother on the school bus...a huge party in your country place somewhere in the 5-8th grades...we were little...a fabulous band played "we've gotta get out of this place" and I was enthralled. I remember your piano playing room on Fifth avenue, soundproof tiny space....that surprised me. I tried to find you through People magazine many years ago when I saw your name...then again I asked an art gallery owner to ask your sister if I could get in touch with you when I happened on an exhibit of hers. None of that panned out. And then a month ago I saw a classmate friend of mine from Chapin and I mentioned you and she said she had news of you. I wanted to get in touch with you. Sadly, it's too late now. I remember you with kindness. ps next week is my Chapin 50th class reunion....Time flew...I know you had great adventures...I also chose wonderful ones. I wish you many more on another realm. xxx Zia “ Omg, I was just thinking of Christina when I saw Mikhail Baryshnikov's video because she was credited with bringing him to the U.S. So now I am alone of the trio , Christina, in the class above (Julie Nixon and Lindsay Crouse) and Nancy Muller and men who made the I of Trader Vic's one of our adventures. I got to see.Fonteyn and Nureyev, thanks to her. Hope you are having adventures still.

Zia Shields - April 05, 2015 at 10:23 PM

Kathryn Adisman - August 18, 2016 at 06:12 PM

“ My beach buddy, thrower of magnificent beach house parties
You napped in my tanning beds
You raised up a giant pink flamingo on your deck in answer to your lagoon neighbors giant Betty boop
We spent christmases
Shared secrets
You knew immediately I wasn't a natural born beach hippie . You called me out the day we met. Your not from here , you have to be a city girl.
I looked for you since you left lavallette

I found out you were gone today.

If I had only remembered michael's last name I would have known you were only a few miles away from me in NC

I'm heartbroken

Xoxo my beach bestie!

Till we meet again

elaine mcandrew - May 25, 2017 at 01:06 PM