“ My memory of Steve goes back to the band days in the late 80s! Steve and I worked together at Mr Ps and I believe we ate food at the BP across from the Cinema about every day. $2 hot dog and a drink deal. Many bands, shows, parties, movies, etc.

I was with him at his Dads funeral.

When I started at BB&T in 96, I flew down to Austin, TX for a week of training. Steve was somewhere near by and drove all the way to Austin to see me, then we drove that night to see the Alamo (got there about 5 minutes after it closed) and then drove all the way back LOL.

We were out of touch a while until about 3 years ago. Steve contacted me about his Podcast, History of Westeros. Him and his buddy were BIG into the Game of Thrones stories and had an entire podcast dedicated to it. He asked me to write the show theme music for them. That was a blast! Not long after he started getting sick and had to leave his Podcast.

I don't know all the details on his journey to today, but Steve was the real thing! RIP my brother.

“ Steve was loved. The biggest compliment I could give him would be to say that he was in our circle of friends. To be in the circle is something that everyone inside cherishes greatly. Steve had a front row seat for some of the most fun and legendary times of all of our lives. Nothing can ever change that.

I, like so many, am thankful I knew him! He was loved and will definitely be missed.

“ Steve was a very caring person who loved my best friend and treated her like she deserved, I'll always hold a place in my heart for him for that reason. I didn't get the chance to know him well, but what I saw was a heart of gold, he never came to my home for Kendra without gifts for my dog Penelope. Generous and caring til the end, rest in peace friend.

“ Steve and I became friend while serving in 2/32 FA Glessen, Germany. I was lucky enough to remain friends with Mangi. Never met a guy with a more true spirit, a love for life, and a love for other people. I'm glad we stayed in touch a lot and I will miss our late night talks. Prepare the barracks for us buddy. Until we are united....

“ Many years ago, Steve and a group of mutual friends of ours went to Rosarito Mexico for my birthday. Being from California our group was culturally mixed. We didn't realize that until Steve opened his mouth and said " 2 Mexicans, a Puertorican, an Indian with a dot not a feather, and a friggin Italian are trying to come into U.S. soil. What's wrong with this picture? We ain't crossing !"

That's Mangi for ya. :)
